A Chair of Air for Ultimate Tailgate Comfort

10/03/2008

Pregame grilling, eating and football tossing can take a lot out of you. So having a place to park your ass in the parking lot is a must. I've been to a lot of tailgates and I've seen a lot of chairs: lawn chairs, plastic chairs, director's chairs - but nothing that delivers the style and comfort of the inflatable Tailgater Chair.

From the makers of the Aerobed, Tailgate Chair's pump plugs into your car's DC outlet (or runs off eight C-cell batteries), and in about 90 seconds you've got a heavy-gauge

PVC parking lot throne, large enough to hold the biggest Dog in the Dog Pound. There's a cup holder for your beer, pockets to hold your gear, and a puncture resistant bottom so you don't get that sinking feeling.

When the party's over, deflate and store in the included carry bag. It makes sitting in a lawn chair seem downright primitive.
